

TAX REVISION BATTLE FACING CLIMAX TODAY

Sternest Fight Is Seen Over Amendment to Kill Special Surtax OTHER PROPOSALS TO BE VOTED UPON Move to Eliminate Undistributed Profits Tax Loses

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 8.—The tax revision bill approached a climax today after defeat of a Republican proposal to repeal entirely the undistributed profits levy. Leaders expected the biggest battle to develop over an amendment to kill a special surtax on family-owned and other closely-held corporations. Republicans and some Democrats were backing the amendment, but administration forces expressed confidence it would not be approved.

On Two Proposals First, however, votes had to be taken on two other proposals, which would: 1. Impose a flat 12 1/2 per cent tax on capital gains in place of a section establishing maximum rates of 16 to 39 1/2 per cent on gains realized on assets held for more than a year. 2. Require the treasury to continue making public corporation salaries in excess of $15,000. Although the house voted 2 to 1 last year for repeal of the requirement, President Roosevelt has recommended its retention.

The amendment by Representative Treadway (R., Mass.) to eliminate the undistributed profits levy was defeated yesterday, 78 to 33. Stands By Committee The house thus stood by the suggestion of its ways and means committee that corporations having incomes below $25,000 pay only a 12 1/2 per cent income tax—no undistributed profits tax. Most larger income concerns would pay what amounts to a 4 per cent surtax on undistributed profits in addition to a 16 per cent income tax.

600 Sailors Perish As Insurgent Cruiser Is Sunk

Students Present "Epic of Ozarks"

The "Epic of the Ozarks" might well have been the theme of a hill-billy program presented in the high school auditorium this morning by the Sophomore class. Robert Clark, president of the class, presided. Entertainment was presented during a "feud" between the mythical Coy and Martin families.

Viola Dotson played a guitar solo, while the "Martin triplets"—Margaret Fronius, Ruth Alice Stoudt and Ruth West—sang "The Old Apple Tree."

Harmonica airs were lent by Bruce Gibbons and Robert Dixon and Al J. Freese staged a mountaineer skit. Betty Frobert sang "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky" and Sue Herman gave acrobatic dances.

ADMIRAL GOES DOWN WITH SHIP

Rebel Vessel Torpedoed In Naval Battle Off Cartagena

(By Associated Press) GIBRALTAR, March 8.—British seamen aboard rescue destroyers told today how the insurgent cruiser Baleares, torpedoed in a naval battle Sunday off Cartagena, went down with her rear admiral's flag flying when only 200 of her crew had been saved. The admiral went down with his ship.

Members of the crews of the British destroyer Kempenfelt and Boreas estimated 600 insurgent sailors were lost when the Baleares went to the bottom of the Mediterranean. The two destroyers returned here yesterday after disembarking the 200 survivors at Palma, Balearic islands insurgent base.

Previously the British admiralty in London had reported 400 men were saved.

Stung by the blow, which government sources said would impair the efficiency of the insurgent blockade, insurgents repeatedly bombed Cartagena, government naval base, and issued a decree for requisitioning additional ships to strengthen their naval arm.

The insurgent command announced the loss of the Baleares with a communique lauding the bravery of sailors and protecting the "barbarity" of government fliers for bombing vessels attempting to aid the shipwrecked.

PAY TAXES ON INSTALLMENTS

Delinquent Property Owners Given Second Opportunity to Meet Obligations

LISBON, March 8.—Tax delinquent property owners in Columbiana county who failed to take advantage of the Whittemore Act before its expiration Dec. 10, will be given a second opportunity to meet their obligations on the installment plan. County Treasurer Olen Dawson announced Monday. Under provisions of the Di Salle-Ward Act, recently passed by the legislature, delinquents may make payments in ten equal annual installments provided they comply with stipulations enacted in the law. All taxes and penalties due since Jan. 1, 1936, must be paid at the time the contract is signed. It also is necessary to make the first contract payment, amounting to one tenth of the delinquency at this time.

Wellsville Woman Wins Compensation

LISBON, March 8.—Catherine Adams, a clerk in the office of County Treasurer Olen Dawson, was awarded a verdict permitting her to participate in state industrial funds by a common pleas court jury Monday afternoon. Miss Adams was seriously injured in an automobile accident two years ago while on her way to her home in Wellsville. She based her claim to participation on certain documents she was carrying from the treasurer's office to a Wellsville residence, claiming she was performing an office function at the time. When the case was heard by the commission Miss Adams' claim was rejected a year ago.

Taylor Scoffs At Davey Statements

Governor Martin L. Davey took to the radio last night to cuss his various state department misadventures, notably the liquor enforcement branch, targets of the senate's "graft-hunting" committee. He took occasion to come to the defense of the liquor department, extolling its virtues and pointing out the profit it had made for the state.

DAVEY DEFENDS LIQUOR FORCE

Harry Sparks, Engineer Who Testified Before Probers, Loses Job

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, March 8.—Gov. Martin L. Davey, in reply to the senate investigating committee's charges of corruption, praised the state liquor department today as having established "the best record of any state in America." Recalling the committee's preliminary report which alleged the department was "shot through" with "corruption, graft, false reports," the governor said here last night in the second of a series of statewide radio addresses: "This is a villainous and unforgivable condemnation of a whole state department. That Russian committee was busy for nearly two and a half months trying by every desperate device to find things wrong with the liquor department."

"PEACE OR FIGHT" STATEMENT PROMPTS VARYING COMMENT

To Some, Chamberlain's Policy Seems "All Right"; Others Are Opposed to Declaration

(By Associated Press) LONDON, March 8.—Prime Minister Chamberlain's "peace or fight" declaration to the world brought a mixed response today from London's man in the street. To some it seemed all right. "Sure, I'd fight again," grinned a bus conductor with gun powder marked face. Many didn't give much thought to the parliamentary appeal for support of Britain's "almost terrifying" armament program to back up peace talks with dictators. "Glad Chamberlain's got it better," was a telegrapher's comment. Some others thought the armament program was wrong. There was a litl and public opposition to the premier's policy, but his appeal to British fighting spirit was not without widespread response. "The days of namby pamby international pacifism are over," proclaimed the Daily Mail, pro-Chamberlain, in today's editorial. "Avoing that 'I, myself, would fight for the preservation of democracy," Chamberlain last night won a vote of confidence from the house of commons both for pursu-

TWO TEACHERS RESIGN; BOARD FILLS VACANCY

Miss Martha Krauss To Devote Time to Private Music Lessons

MISS ELIZABETH BURT WILL STUDY

E. Palestine Teacher Is Named to Vacancy at 4th St. School

The resignation of two school teachers and the appointment of a new one were highlights of the board of education meeting Monday night in the High school building. The resignations were those of Miss Martha Krauss, music supervisor, and Miss Elizabeth Burt, fifth grade teacher at the Fourth Street building. Miss Krauss will devote her time to her private practice of music instruction, while Miss Burt will enter University of Wisconsin to seek her master's degree.

Appointment Approved The board approved Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr's appointment of Miss Clara Chamberlain of East Palestine to succeed Miss Burt. Miss Chamberlain has been a teacher in the East Palestine schools for 12 years.

Board members last night approved expenses of Supt. Kerr and Harold M. Williams, High school principal, in attending the convention of the National Association of School Administrators at Atlantic City last week. Principal Williams attended three days of the convention.

Supt. Kerr suggested last night that the Kelly practice field be given a final grading and that tile be laid for proper drainage. Bills totaling $2,889 were read and approved.

"The theme for last week's convention at Atlantic City was 'Youth Problems for Today,'" Supt. Kerr reported.

Education Moves Favorably "After four rather strenuous days of attending programs, panel discussions, and conferences, we came home more pleased with the direction in which public education seems to be moving nationally than from any education convention in the last five years."

"Between the extremes of the traditional memorizer school and the progressive education adherents, the central tendency seems to be toward an intelligently directed, child-centered school."

"The core curriculum which, among other things, insists on mastery of the basic skills, and includes passing the significant experience of the race on to the new generation, is gaining wide acceptance among school men generally. To our way of thinking American education is rapidly consolidating its hard-won gains of the past decade, and none too soon at that."

The match will be held in Taylor hall at Wooster college, chosen as a neutral spot, and Prof. Emerson Miller, head of the college's public speaking department, will act as judge.

The Salem debaters will be Miss Constance Clarke and Elsie Hunter. Salem and St. Clairsville are two of eight schools undefeated in seasonal matches this year. The Salem debaters if successful Thursday, will go to Columbus for the state finals on March 18, 19. Four teams will compete, two schools being eliminated the first day, J. C. Guiler, Salem High school debate coach, announced.

Struck by Hammer, Asks $3,000 Damages

LISBON, March 8.—George N. McCamon of Elkrun township filed suit in common pleas court this morning, seeking $3,000 damages for injuries which he alleged were inflicted when P. A. Barcus, also of Elkrun township, struck him on the head with a claw hammer during an argument. The men were arguing Feb. 7 over a strip of land when, according to McCamon, Barcus rendered him unconscious with a blow from the hammer.

Commissioners Are Silent On Engineer Developments

Lisbon Hears Wheatley May Be Commissioned; Auditor Holds Up Kirk Employees' Wages

LISBON, March 8.—Authoritative sources here and in Columbus hinted today that Robert S. Wheatley of Salineville, a Democrat, had been given a commission to the position of Columbiana county engineer, following the state's approval of an opinion prepared by County Prosecutor Karl Stouffer. Wheatley, at his home in Salineville today, said he had not been so notified, but that if it were true "I will file bond and demand the office."

Prosecutor Stouffer's opinion, issued at the request of the county commissioners who asked him if a vacancy existed, was in line with the earlier ruling of the state supreme court that no one was elected to the engineership in 1936.

This is based on the fact that Wheatley, at that time, had not received his engineer's license from the state.

Lloyd C. Kirk, Lisbon Republican, took over Wheatley's desk in the courthouse Feb. 18, after the supreme court refused to grant Wheatley another hearing.

The high tribunal's opinion regarding the engineer's office was based on Section 8 of the general code which states that an incumbent in an office continues therein until his successor is elected, or appointed or qualified. In quoting this section, the court omitted the words "or appointed."

The Columbiana county commissioners are understood to have seen a loop-hole here and immediately considered the proposition that possibly they could appoint Wheatley because the position is legally vacant.

The commissioners themselves are non-committal. Another development in the "fight" over the engineer's office came this morning when County Auditor John H. Irwin announced that he would be forced to hold up the pay of three of Kirk's appointees, James Thurston of Lisbon, county superintendent; Judson Canfield of Salem, maintenance engineer, and George Cline of Lisbon, assistant county superintendent.

In a supplemental ruling given to the commissioners yesterday, Prosecutor Stouffer said "all employees designated as county maintenance engineers, or superintendents, or rodmen, can only be appointed when authorized by the county commissioners."

Pleads Not Guilty To Liquor Charge

Myron Oana, proprietor of the Roosevelt Grill, S. Ellsworth ave., was arrested yesterday by Chief Ralph Stoffer on a charge of exposing liquor on a table after closing hours, following a seizure of two bottles of beer early Sunday morning by Patrolman Clifford Todd. Oana, who pleaded not guilty before Mayor George arrof yesterday, will be given a hearing March 16 in the mayor's court.

The defendant is the second to be arrested for violation of the closing hour ordinance since the chief recently issued a general warning.

Begin Murder Trial For Grafton Negro

ELYRIA, March 8.—Twelve jurors were seated tentatively today in the first degree murder trial of Edward Hensley, Negro, charged with the Oct. 18 assault slaying of Louise Hornbeck, 19-year-old Grafton dentist's assistant. Attorneys said they expected to call the first witness tomorrow, Miss Hornbeck was attacked and beaten to death in a lot near her home as she was returning from her employer's office.

Donald A. Campbell, John E. McGee Sentenced to Penitentiary

GUILT DENIED BY DEFENDANTS

Court Tells Jury Its Verdict Is Service To Unionism

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, March 8.—A common pleas court jury today convicted Donald A. Campbell and John E. McGee, labor leaders, of extorting $1,200 from Vernon Stouffer, head of a restaurant chain. Campbell and McGee had been on trial for three weeks before a jury of six men and six women. They were the first of four union leaders to go on trial on charges of extortion.

Campbell is president of the painters' district council and McGee is president of the laborers' district council.

Asks New Trial William J. Corrigan, defense attorney, announced immediately he would file a motion for a new trial. Judge Alva R. Corlett sentenced the men to one to five year terms. Judge Corlett said the men would be sent to the penitentiary within five days.

Municipal Safety Director Eliot Ness, 34, obtained the evidence on which Campbell, McGee and two other labor leaders were indicted. The others, awaiting trial, are James P. McDonnell, Campbell's assistant, and Mose Donley, furniture finishers' union business agent.

County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullinan charged that Campbell instructed Stouffer to pay McGee $1,200 or face indefinite delay in the renovation of a building.

"Shakedowns" Charged State witnesses other than Stouffer testified they paid Campbell $1,130 indirectly and $370 directly in a dozen other alleged "shakedowns."

Campbell and McGee denied having either solicited or accepted money from Stouffer. Defense counsel claimed that "union labor is on trial." The Cleveland Federation of Labor voted "moral and financial" support to the defendants.

Judge Corlett told the jurors "You have rendered the greatest service to unionism and organized labor in this community. The time will come when decent labor authorities will take the place of these racketeers and thugs."

"Thank you very much. You have earned your reward. I have taken a great interest in your welfare during the time you were sequestered in the hotel."

Church Will Show Religious Movies

Motion pictures of the "Life of Christ" and the "Passion Play" will be presented at the Methodist Episcopal church at 8 p. m. Wednesday night, in connection with the church's Lenten program. The two films depict the story of Jesus from the nativity to the ascension, based on and patterned after the world famous Frieburg and Oberammergau "Passion Plays" of Europe. The pictures were filmed in Europe, the Holy Land and Egypt.

A complete and appropriate musical score will be played throughout the entire film on special sound equipment, reproducing some of the world's finest and most exquisite orchestral, organ and choral music.

The films have been shown in more than 2,000 churches of the United States and Canada to more than 1,000,000 people.

The public is invited to witness their showing here. No admission will be charged, but a silver offering will be taken to help defray expenses.

THREE'S A CROWD

Three's a crowd in the Tennessee Valley Authority, too. So Chairman Arthur E. Morgan, Ohio college president and flood control expert, is spending his days and nights waiting for David Lillenthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, the other directors, to get rid of him. Mr. Morgan is a zoologist, specializing in insects. Mr. Lillenthal is a lawyer, specializing in power utilities.

This is an intriguing setup—three men, one a flood control expert, one a zoologist and one a utility bailer, struggling with one another in the matter of what the Tennessee Valley Authority is, or should be. The flood control expert, somewhat strangely, is in a minority. The lawyer and the zoologist are on top and riding high, though Dr. Arthur Morgan isn't conceding a thing yet.

If he's made to yield, however, it's going to be harder than ever, supreme court opinions to the contrary notwithstanding, to believe that TVA is honestly and truly a flood control project, with overtones of national defense. Rather, it is going to look suspiciously as though it had something to do with zoology and the anti-power utility campaign, which is what unregenerates have suspected all along.

WELL, WHY NOT?

The Northwest Territory Celebration commission feels a contagious enthusiasm for the advertising (an OK team and a Conestoga wagon) on the new Ohio automobile license plates. It points out that Texas' centennial tags last year were the berries, and there are, of course, the New York tags advertising the world's fair in New York City in 1940.

The commission's argument is almost too stout, if anything. Ohio, it says, is almost in the population center of the United States, and Ohio cars are among the most numerous out-of-state cars seen on the Atlantic coast. "The value of such advertising is tremendous," it concludes. Put the tags on as early as possible, it advises, and help the state clean up.

All right, if license plates are sure fire for advertising, what's wrong with this proposition? Let's sell advertising space on the tags to private advertisers—a highest bidder proposition—and apply the money to reducing the cost of the tags. If the nation can be made to team and Conestoga wagon conscious, it should be a snap to make it think of breakfast food, or coffee or tires whenever it sees an Ohio license tag.

GETTING USED TO THE IDEA

There has not appeared in the United States, as yet, what is best described as a "martial spirit." That is, there is no considerable demand for a show of force. There have been significantly few demonstrations of willingness to go to war.

This is partly explained, of course, by absence of sharp provocation. The government and the citizens of the country do not have an enemy; they merely have certain governments and certain peoples whose attitudes and action invite their criticism.

It is true, nevertheless, that the population of this country is getting used to the idea, firmly established in some official quarters, that the United States should not let its isolationism interfere with plans for taking it out of isolation. The martial spirit is being fed by an ambitious program to increase the nation's military competency.

Progress toward this end is evident in acceptance of the administration's armament expansion program and in tacit support of mobilization plans which would entail changing the form of government from that of a republic to a dictatorship in event of war.

Though, officially, nothing but national defense is in mind, the war planners are going ahead on a scale which suggests to foreign observers that American isolation may be only a pious pose.

STRANGE STORY DEVELOPED BY WIDOW'S MILLIONS

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—On the anniversary of its first hearing, the legal scramble for the fabulous Garrett estate millions continues unabated with claims filed by 23,000 persons from all over the world.

When Mrs. Henrietta E. Garrett, widow of Walter Garrett, Philadelphia snuff king of the eighties, died in 1930, she unknowingly started the greatest litigation in legal history. For Mrs. Garrett apparently had a distaste for such matters as wills, and bequeathed only $62,000 of the estate, swollen by probable investment to $20,000,000 at her death.

Enough testimony of litigants has already been taken to fill 63 average-size novels—10,500 pages of 35 printed volumes. And interested attorneys must pay $1,083 for a transcription of this mountain of words.

Estate Growing Yearly
Before January, 1937, when the case was opened, more than 17,000 persons had filed claims. On year later bids had been received from 23,000 residents of the United States and 29 foreign countries. And value of the shrewdly invested estate was growing at the rate of a half million a year.

William M. Davidson, court-appointed master, estimates it may be three or four years before the money is distributed, either to relatives or

THE GOOSE AND ITS FEATHERS

The problem of taxation never changes: It is how to pluck the most feathers from the goose with the least damage to the goose.

That problem has been muddled by attempts to make the goose look and behave like a crow, but to keep on growing feathers just the same.

This is the real issue in the argument over corporation taxes now raging in the house of representatives, though no one, excepting a handful of unconstructed old timers, would say so out loud.

The government needs revenue; the government wants reform of corporations, also. It has tried to get both and succeeded in getting neither, unless injury and reform are one and the same thing. The goose shows signs of fatigue and despondency—a bleak prospect for the feather pullers.

The argument in the house is confusing because the issue is not being stated clearly. There never has been a clean cut decision on the principle established by the law taxing corporate surplus.

Advocates of the law, as revised by committee, are defending it on its merits as a revenue raiser. Critics of the law are attacking it on its demerits as a corporation leveler. No wonder they can't get together.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

HEREDITY PLAYS an important part in the transmission of certain diseases. But, let me point out, because some member of your family has cancer you need not think you must have it. If one or both parents died at an early age, there is no reason to assume that the offspring will be deprived of a long span of life.

The accumulation of statistical data has always been of great interest to the medical profession. By the study of such material certain popular beliefs have been proven false, while others have been confirmed.

Many persons believe they will be carried away by given disease merely because one of their parents or grandparents had it. This is an unnecessary mental burden to carry.

The fact is, a good many persons have deprived themselves of needed medical attention because they feared they might find themselves victims of hereditary disease. This foolish practice has led to a great deal of unnecessary suffering. Indeed, serious complications have occurred which otherwise would have been prevented.

Can't Be Ignored
Of course, I do not mean to imply that heredity and hereditary disease must be ignored. But we must be sensible about these things. If a certain disease has existed in your family for many generations, it is well that you be familiar with this fact. But this does not mean that you are doomed and medical consultation is useless.

Bear in mind that many of the disturbances to which our forefathers succumbed were little understood and often erroneously diagnosed.

It is a well known fact that persons who are afflicted with certain chronic disorders and who take the necessary precautionary measures, often outlive those who have rarely been ill. The healthy individual fears nothing and as a result of his confidence too frequently indulges in strenuous, exhausting and debilitating practices. He subjects his body to unnecessary stress and strain and ultimately suffers the penalty of his folly.

Get at the Cause of Constipation!

You know that constipation often gives you that dopey, sunken, bogged down feeling. Why not get at the cause and fix it?

If you eat what most people do things like bread, meat and potatoes—the chances are all that's the matter with you is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean what you may think. It's a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines that aids elimination.

If this is your trouble, what you need is a dish of crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need, plus Nature's intestinal tonic vitamin B₁, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if the old world doesn't look a lot brighter! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

LOANS ON CROPS ARE AVAILABLE

Mahoning Farmers To Make Applications In Youngstown

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1938 will be received at the Mahoning county agent's office, postoffice building, Youngstown, by G. L. Huffman, field supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit Administration on Wednesdays and Thursdays of each week.

The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1938 crops or for livestock, and the amount which may be loaned to any one farmer in 1938 may not exceed $400.

Must Try Other Sources First

Farmers who can obtain the funds they need from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern are not eligible for crop and feed loans from the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit Administration. The loans will not be made to stand-rehabilitation clients whose current needs are provided for by the Farm Security Administration, formerly known as the Resettlement Administration.

As in the past, farmers who obtain emergency crop and feed loans will give as security a first lien on the crop financed, or a first lien on the livestock to be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase feed for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants, the landlords, or others having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be mailed from the regional emergency crop and feed loan office at 315 Pine st., St. Louis, Mo.

Diet of Stones For Hogs Is Prescribed

COLUMBUS—What? Feed stones to your pigs? Certainly, asserts Prof. C. W. Gay of the Ohio State university department of animal husbandry—but not in the form of pebbles or boulders.

Research at the Ohio State agricultural experiment station has shown that hogs make better gains if their diet includes regular doses of powdered limestone. Professor Gay declared.

"Good legume hay ordinarily supplies sufficient calcium for animals, but hogs cannot consume enough hay to get the necessary amount, so ground stone should be included in the ration."

"Women In Love" by May Christie

CHAPTER XXV.

"Tired?"
Not at all. I'd a splendid evening. Did you enjoy it, Mr. Bradley?"
He must not guess the tumult going on inside of her! It was wonderful—but somehow humiliating that he had the power to move her, stir her, when he had not yet spoken a single word of love to her.

"I certainly did enjoy it. It made me feel—how shall I express it?—young again." He smiled.

Watching him from the shadows—the moon obscured under a passing cloud—the flash of his white, even teeth, and regular profile drawing her irresistibly, she struggled for composure, was furious with herself for her lack of savoir-faire.

"But you are young! It's just having such an important position in the store that makes you feel—well—responsible. Isn't that so?" (How foolish it sounded!)

"I'm a good ten years older than you, my dear. And a decade makes an awful lot of difference."

"Why, you're not hinting that we're like May and November?"
Glanced from Ann. Immediately she thought, "Didn't I once hear him telling a buyer that the greatest fault of women was that they always take the personal angle? Turn every generality to themselves? That was a maddening failing?" And she felt ashamed, awaiting his reply.

He opened his mouth as though to speak, and then blew a ring of smoke into the air. The taxi swung into Central Park South and to the left, the Japanese Lake lay dreaming. Through the leafless trees, the myriad lights of great skyscrapers.

"May and November?" he repeated. And then he gave a curiously wry sort of grin. "While we're on this subject, what about O'Hallahan?"

"Didn't you give him a good deal of—encouragement this evening?"
Mr. O'Hallahan," said Ann quickly, "is merely a business acquaintance. Please understand that."

He wandered alone into the night club and seeing me a wall-flower—a temporary wall-flower—came over and asked me to dance the bolero. I love the bolero. He really danced beautifully. D'you think," she added anxiously, "that in view of our business connection, I should have refused to dance?"

"Oh, not at all. There's no reason why you shouldn't, but you must admit you did permit him to monopolize a good deal of your time?"

Was he jealous? Paul Bradley, jealous of the attractive silk manufacturer? Or was it that she really had transgressed store ethics, laying herself open to legitimate criticism from "the boss?"

Forgetting that Paul Bradley had seen what was apparently her home address or telephone number being committed to his little black book by Tim O'Hallahan, she blundered, in her anxiety, "I wouldn't dream of going out places with him, you understand."

"That's a wise course to take, for I don't have to tell you a store is a hotbed for gossip."

Whereupon the fact that they themselves were driving tete-a-tete in Central Park long after midnight struck them simultaneously. They looked at each other, burst out laughing like two children. The tension was eased.

They chatted on varying subjects, getting to know each other better. Would she like to go to Paris for the early-spring openings? He himself would probably be going over. With a gay lift of the heart, Ann eagerly assured him that nothing would please her more than a trip to the French capital.

Paris in spring-time! Flowering chestnut trees along the Champs Elysees! Perhaps gay little dinners out in the Bois—with Paul?

A New York spring comes in with a rush, and is over quickly, but a Paris spring is the loveliest thing in the world, surely," said Ann, a catch in her young, vibrant voice, her blue eyes lighted with anticipation.

He asked: "What was it that the poet Lord Tennyson wrote?"
Something terribly hackneyed nowadays! "In the spring, a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," she quoted.

"Does it have to be spring for that, Ann?" He was leaning forward and towards her as the taxi skimmed smoothly under the leafless trees. Even in winter, can't one—"

She was in his arms, lost in the wonder and the glory of his kisses.

Monday night. Her heart full of Paul Bradley as, with her mother, she hearkened to the first act of "Samson and Delilah" from the seats in the box at the Metropolitan that had been given her by Tim O'Hallahan.

When the curtain fell, tears of emotion stood in Ann's blue eyes. Lollie was scanning the Golden Horseshoe with her opera glasses, recognizing friends and enemies "of happier days," as she was wont to refer, sentimentally, to that period before the crash. Several of them came to visit her.

When the lights were again lowered, and the curtain rung up on Act II, Ann was presently to sense a large presence on the hitherto vacant chair at her left.

A man—immaculate in evening clothes—with a white gardenia in the satin lapel of his tail-coat. Tim O'Hallahan! So he had stolen a march on her? Good around her rehearsal of coming here alone with him! Indignant at his action, she kept her eyes upon the stage, but when the curtain was rung down and the lights went up, of course she had to speak to Tim, present to mother.

Through her jewelled lorgnette that relic of past grandeur the pretty, petulant Mrs. Delafield surveyed this "possibility" for Ann.

Marriage—with money—money that would help the family fortunes—Lollie's small mind could go no further.

The man looked like money! Came the sibilant whisper from her mother: "What does he do, Ann?"

"He's a silk manufacturer."

"You mean, the O'Hallahan with the huge mill over in New Jersey?"

"Yes—careful! He'll hear you!"
Ann nodded. "Do hush, darling!"
"Perhaps, Mr. O'Hallahan," said Lollie ever so sweetly, and before Ann could check her, "you'd give us the pleasure of your company at dinner one evening? My daughter—"

"—with a complacent smile at Ann—"

"—had told me so much about you that I quite seem to know you already!"

"Delighted, I'm sure," said Tim. Many eyes had been leveled from all parts of the Metropolitan on the handsome trio.

But the eyes that viewed them with the greatest satisfaction belonged to an unscorned woman in a cheap gallery seat.

Brenda Seiz enjoyed the Opera, but had to pay for her own ticket. Through powerful double glasses, she scrutinized Tim O'Hallahan—and Ann Delafield. Her mouth twisting sardonically!

"So the wind lies in that quarter? I thought as much!"
Next morning at the store, she lingered in Ann's department—apparently in friendly fashion.

"Nice little line of lingerie!" Her sharp eyes scanned the price tags. "But aren't they a bit high?"

"Oh, no. It's first-class material," Ann told her.

Brenda went off to her lunch. She wasted little time on food, however. She planned dropping in at some rival stores. The lingerie sections were her objective. The particular line of lingerie she had commented on, in Ann's department, was certainly not "moving." By the grapevine system she had heard it, and rejoiced.

Making the rounds, Brenda finally landed in Marcus & Pickard's big emporium, a stone's throw from Barclay & Weiss. Prowling around the silken garments of the competitors, she made a discovery! The identical line of lingerie that Ann was featuring—had even advertised on Sunday in the lay-out—was selling like hot cakes to the customers at considerably less price.

"These marked down?" she inquired of a salesgirl, certain that style, cut, material, finish were identical with those of Ann's.

"Certainly not, across the street, and within fifteen minutes was closeted with Herman Weiss, co-owner of the store with old Tom Barclay, who was really in the nature of a sleeping partner, and now turning his bones on the sands of the South.

"I've come to you in confidence, because I'm afraid here's something going on in the Lingerie department of which you should be informed." It was not the first time that the Gift Shop buyer had tattled to the "big shot" of the store, who trusted her no more than he trusted any other of his employees, with the exception of Paul Bradley.

But he listened for her spying proclivities were Grade A, and she was usually fairly accurately informed, he had discovered.

"Humph!" grunted Herman, turning a fishy eye on Brenda, "Go ahead!"

"You know that line of lingerie we advertised last Sunday a week ago, in the big double spread? D'you know why we're stuck with it? It's because Marcus & Pickard are terrifically underselling us with the same quality goods—the identical same stuff as Miss Delafield ordered in quantities from O'Hallahan!"

"Is—that—so?" Herman leaned back in his swivel chair, his eyes on Brenda, his thick lips nervously rolling the soggy end of his cigar.

The Gift Shop buyer nodded. Haunted. Knew what was coming. "She's been buying heavily from this fellow ever since she's been in charge. Only yesterday, Mo Seidenbaum was in here complaining that he doesn't get a look-in from her."

"Matter of fact, I been putting two and two together, and they don't make four!" said Herman Weill.

"She naturally wouldn't give Mo a tumble when she's around everywhere with Tim O'Hallahan," Brenda replied.

"So she steps out with him, huh?"
"He had her in a box at the Opera last night, and what she wore certainly didn't come out of her pay check—not out of forty a week—do you understand?"

"I get you."
"It's a shame," said wily Brenda, "that you should be landed with a big consignment of goods that won't move. And the space that was given it in the Sunday lay-out, and again last Wednesday. People have been kidding about it—I mean, the other buyers."

"Does Bradley know all this?"
"I haven't any idea," said Brenda. "He ought to." Herman pressed a button on his desk, and rose. He had his own opinion of Ann Delafield—those stuck-up Delafields who had dared to snub his daughters—why! Now he remembered that Becky had had quite a crush on Tim O'Hallahan, and Tim hadn't been around to see her in the past week or so, and Momma had told him Becky had been crying about it. The fickle Irishman had dared to double-cross him in two ways!

His secretary came in from the outer office.

"Get Miss Delafield on the phone immediately, and have her come right here."

Brenda departed looking exactly like the cat that had swallowed the canary. Herman sank back in his chair.

Not only was Delafield a rotten buyer, putting him in the red and all, with the consignment, but she was accepting graft, he was assured. Instead of giving her money out of his own pocket, that tricky O'Hallahan, the Irish devil, was charging extra on the goods supplied to her department, on her orders, giving her the surplus, making the store pay through the nose.

"I'll fire her! But first she'll get an earful that'll surprise her!" said Herman balefully as he awaited Ann.

looking! I never suspected that all he was after was the 'down-payment' for himself—that he never intended to deliver the goods at all! No wonder he priced them so cheap.

Guild Plans Post-Easter Bridge Fete

Plans for a benefit bridge to be held after Easter were discussed at a meeting of the St. Agnes guild of the Church of Our Saviour yesterday at the home of Mrs. James Wilson, Aetna st.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Robert Campbell, Mrs. M. H. Mawhinney, Mrs. Walter Deming II and Mrs. Harry Haynes.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. R. Gibson on South Lincoln ave.

Club Has Program On Government

A program on "Our Government" was enjoyed by Salem Book club members at their meeting in the assembly room of the public library yesterday afternoon.

Roll call response was current events. A paper on the topic, "How Can the Citizen Improve Local Government?" was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkbride.

Mrs. Edwin Smith and Mrs. A. U. Patton, affirmative speakers, and Mrs. W. D. King and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, negative, held a debate on the question, "Resolved, That Congress is Granting President Roosevelt Too Much Power." No decision for the debate was given, members expressing their opinions in informal discussion after the speakers gave their arguments.

Mrs. J. Herbert Yengling and Daniel Holloway were musical entertainers. Mrs. Yengling, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Dana Fieding, sang "The Little Hills Are Calling" and "Ho, Mr. Piper." Mr. Holloway, playing trombone, gave the following numbers: "Culius Animam" from "Stabat Mater" (Rossini) and Tosti's "Goodbye." He was accompanied by Mrs. Harold Babb at the piano.

Plans were completed for the next meeting on Monday, March 21, when members of the Leornians club will be guests of the Book club. A special program has been arranged. All members of both clubs are invited to attend. The session will be held at 8 p. m. in the library assembly room.

AMERICA SIGNS CZECHS TREATY

Sweeping Trade Barriers Between Two Countries Are Removed

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 8.—Innovations in the newly-signed trade treaty with Czechoslovakia, state department officials said today, place it among the most important of the 17 which Secretary Hull has negotiated.

"Probably no other country," the state department announced, "has gone as far in attempting to open the way for an expansion of trade by the removal or relaxation of special controls of imports."

Grant Tariff Benefits

Under the treaty, signed last night by Hull and Czech Minister Vladimir Hruban, tariff benefits will be granted on 73.7 per cent of Czech imports from the United States and on 55 per cent of American imports from Czechoslovakia. Trade between the two countries last year totaled $74,680,000.

The controversial question of duties on cheap shoes was settled by fixing an upper limit on their introduction into the United States—a new feature in the treaty system.

Public hearings will begin Monday on a proposed pact with Great Britain. Several others also are in preliminary stages.

Czechoslovakia's major concessions to the United States were in removing import quotas on all but a few items concerned in inter-danubian trade, in placing raw cotton, copper and certain other products on the duty free list, and in lowering duties on 7.8 per cent of imports from America, principally agricultural and fishery products.

U. S. Reductions Listed

The United States granted appreciable reductions on cotton and leather gloves, hops, glassware, flax manufactures, imitation beads, linen napkins, linen table damask, beaded handbags, cotton table damask, and buttons.

Public hearings brought out considerable opposition to cutting duties on cheap cement-soled Czech shoes. The duty, in fact, was not lowered on these, which constitute 90 per cent of the Czech shoe exports to the United States, but was reduced on the 10 per cent of other categories of shoes.

Moreover, the agreement provides that imports of cheap shoes from all countries (Czechoslovakia is the principal supplier) can not exceed 1½ per cent of the annual American production of shoes during the last five years, without being subject to increased duties.

This limits the number of shoes that may be imported to about 4,800,000 pairs, which would be an increase of between 600,000 and 700,000 over last year. There were 40,000,000 pairs of shoes produced in this country last year.

Parkers Indicted In Alleged Kidnap

NEW YORK, March 8.—A federal grand jury today indicted Ellis H. Parker, Sr., Burlington county, N. J., chief of detectives, his son, Ellis, Jr., and three others as kidnapers under the Lindbergh law.

The indictment concerned the alleged kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel, former Trenton resident, from

New York to the Parkers' home in Mt. Holly, N. J., Feb. 24, 1936.

At that time, the Parkers issued a "confession" signed by Wendel that he had kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., the crime for which Bruno Richard Hauptmann was under the death sentence.

The faked confession allegedly obtained by torture delayed Hauptmann's execution three days.

15 Of Last Year's Cage Finalists Eliminated From Ohio Scholastic Tournament

Last Year's Champs Still In Running For Ohio High School Basketball Honors

Salem, Among 1937 Finalists In State Tourney, Still In This Year's Class A Race; List Sites for Week's District Play-offs

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, March 8.—A host of new faces will be on display March 17, 18 and 19 at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum in the Ohio high school championship basketball tourney, 15 of last year's 32 finalists being out of the running today, with the district eliminations still to be played. The state's Class A contingent of 219 teams was slashed to 61 in last week's sectionals, five of last year's entrants in the state meet falling by the wayside while the other 11 clung to the victory side and headed into the district play.

In Class B which started three weeks ago with 912 quintets, the field had been slashed to 82 through county and sectional tournament battles, and only six of last year's 16 state tourney entrants were among the survivors, the other 11 having slipped out of the picture. Both champions, Hamilton in Class A and Upper Arlington in Class B, still were in the middle of the scrap, unscathed in the heavy firing.

Still in the Class A play, after earning state berths last year, were Newark, Warren, Salem, Cincinnati Hughes and Lima South which were eliminated in the first round; Marietta, Akron North, Bridgeport and Ashland which went out in the second round; Canton McKinley, which hung on until the semi-finals, and Hamilton, the champion. Already out of this year's tourney were Rossford, Middletown, Dover, Perryburg and Massillon, the latter the finalist opposite Hamilton.

Enon and Ottoville, first round losers last year, Union City and Bluffton which went out in the second round, Lakeland, the semi-finalist, Canal Fulton club, and the champion Arlingtons are the only Class B clubs having a chance to repeat. Last year's stars already out are Amsterdam, Sandusky, St. Marys, Middleport, Ontario, Olmsted Falls, Danville, Midvale, South Amherst and Lucasville.

DODGERS NEAR ROUND HONORS IN CAGE LOOP

Althouse Quintet Needs One Win to Sew Up Class A Title

Coming within a stone's throw of the second half championship of the Class A City Basketball league, the Althouse Dodgers trounced Mullins, 34 to 23, at the Memorial building last night for their fifth win in six games.

The Dodgers, who were formerly tied with Mullins for the lead, now need only a victory over the Moose Wednesday night to sew up the second half title.

If they take the Moose quint into camp as expected, the Dodgers will meet the first half champion Shasteen Sinclair team for the 1937-38 championship of the Class A circuit. The title play-off will be held next week.

Bounding into the lead in the first period, the Althouse cagers had little trouble in keeping ahead of Mullins throughout the contest. The Bodymakers were unable to hit top stride, and although they made things "hot" for the Dodgers several times during the tilt, they could not keep pace with the Althouse team's scoring.

Bob Jeffries led Althouse's in scoring with 11 points made on five field goals and one free throw. Al Catlos contributed seven points to the Dodgers' total while Sam Drakulich and Scott each collected six.

One other Class A game saw the Columbians suffer their fourth defeat in eight second half games by losing to Shasteen's Sinclair Service Station team, 41 to 37. It was the Sinclairs second win in seven second half contests.

Eddie Pukalski and Clay Raynes paced the Shasteen quint in scoring, the former bagging 13 points and the latter 10. William (Gaby) Guapone tallied 11 points for the Columbians.

Whit's Garage won the second half championship of the Class B league in one of the junior circuit's two games last night, defeating Demings, 18 to 10. It was Whit's eighth victory in nine second half games.

The Methodists, who were formerly tied with Whit's for the top berth in Class B, were eliminated from the race when they lost to the Baptists, 33 to 22, in the other junior league game.

The Class B loop will end its second half this week and start its championship play-off next week. The title series will be between the Columbians, winner of the first half championship, and Whit's Garage.

VITT SEARCHES FOR PLAYER TO OCCUPY SECOND

New Cleveland Manager Says Indians Need Second Sacker

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—The Cleveland club which Oscar Vitt is grooming under sultry skies for another shot at the Yankee stronghold is not a bowl of cherries. It's more like a barrel of apples with a bad one in the middle, to get our metaphors and similes thoroughly mixed.

From a distance, the Indians, who finished third in the American league last year, look very good indeed. They have a slick pitching staff, potentially the best in the game, and they have a lot of power at the plate. What they don't have is a big league second baseman, and that is enough bad apple to spoil any barrel.

"Why should I try to fool anybody?" asks the disarming Mr. Vitt, who is taking over a sector strewn with the bones of departed managers. "I haven't got a good second baseman in sight. Unless I find one among the rookies who is fast enough to team up with my shortstop, Lynn Lary, on double plays, we can't hope to lick those Yankees."

Vitt is not a man to make extravagant talk about beating the Yankees, because he knows them. He managed their Newark farm last season and Col. Jake Ruppert, he recalls, was disappointed because he won the International league by only 2½ games when the Colonel had set his heart on a 30-game margin.

"Believe me, I have no illusions about beating that outfit," says Oscar. "In all, they own about 280 players, and believe it or not, Ruppert knows the first and last name and the record of every last one of them. They fixed me up with that Newark team sort of off-handedly when the season was almost started. Now if they would only give me Joe Gordon I think we could win this pennant."

Gordon played second base at Newark last year and is slated to fill Tony Lazzeri's shoes for the champions this season.

The brightest prospect Vitt has for that all-important infield berth appears to be one Kenneth Keltner, a big 21-year-old who hit a lousy 310 while playing the outfield and third base for Milwaukee last year.

Eight Bouts Scheduled In Boxing Show

Amateur Fighters Square Off Tonight At Memorial Building

Fight fans who like their battles packed with plenty of punches and little strategy are practically certain to receive their full share of enjoyment tonight when Jimmy Perry presents his second amateur boxing show of the indoor season at the Memorial building.

Eight likely-looking bouts, featuring simon-pure sluggers from Salem, Alliance, Sebring and Minerva, will be included on the card which will start promptly at 8:30.

Neil Lorden of Alliance, veteran referee, will be the "third man" in the ring for the main bouts, while Jimmy Panoz will handle the prelims. Panoz worked Perry's last show.

Fighters ranging from 100 to 170 pounds will appear in the eight bouts. The curtain raiser will bring together two 100-pound lads, Leonard Quinn of Salem and Bob Johnson of Alliance while the main go will feature two 170-pounders, Bill Hamacher of Salem and Carl Ormiston of Sebring.

The peak in action is expected to be reached when Salem's scrappy young battler, Don West, goes after his fifth straight victory against Vic Warrick of Sebring in the show's semi-final bout.

West is one of the most promising fighters from Perry's Athletic club, which will be represented in each of tonight's bouts.

Three of Perry's recent finds, Dick Scullion, Raymond Howell and Eugene Altomare, are scheduled to appear in preliminary battles.

Scullion and Howell have never before tested their skill in a scheduled battle, although they have been gaining considerable experience in workouts at Perry's club.

Altomare was booked to appear on the last show, but illness in his family prevented him from going through with the fight.

Other fighters from Perry's club who will appear in the show are Bob Shannon and Freddy Fox.

Gordon played second base at Newark last year and is slated to fill Tony Lazzeri's shoes for the champions this season.

The brightest prospect Vitt has for that all-important infield berth appears to be one Kenneth Keltner, a big 21-year-old who hit a lousy 310 while playing the outfield and third base for Milwaukee last year.

PURDUE FIVE'S SCORING MARK HARD TO BEAT

New Big Ten Champions Tally More Than 500 Points

By EARL HILLIGAN

CHICAGO, March 8.—Purdue's "point a minute men" of the court have hung up a mark of consistent high scoring that Big Ten basketball teams long will be shooting at more than 500 points a season for three consecutive campaigns.

The Big Ten champions who ended their season with a record of 10 games won against two defeats scored 511 points this season, the exact number they tallied in 1937 when they finished fourth. In 1936 they scored 503 points.

In Jewell Young, Purdue had one of the greatest shots ever produced at the Lafayette institution. He scored 69 field goals and made 46 out of 60 free throw attempts for 184 points, a new all-conference season's scoring mark which bettered the record of 172 points he established in 1937.

Ernie Andres, Indiana guard, who set a new single game Big Ten mark of 30 points late this season, wound up in second place in the race for individual scoring honors with 162 points. "Pick" Dehner of Illinois, was third at 147.

Northwestern lost last night to Michigan 30 to 22, and had led the race until the stretch drive, emerged as tops in one department—accuracy from the free throw line. The Wildcats made 89 charity points and missing 45, averaging 664, Iowa was second in percentage from the foul line.

After losing their first three games, Minnesota dug in and won nine straight to capture second place. They had the best defensive record of any club, allowing opponents only 338 points.

In last night's final game, Michigan flashed the form which made the club a pre-season favorite, handing Northwestern a defeat which forced the Wildcats into a tie for third place with Ohio State. Michigan held a 17-16 edge at the half, but was much superior in the last stanza holding Northwestern scoreless for 15 minutes. John Townsend's 13 point performance gave him a tie for fifth place in the scoring race and better by six points the old Michigan season, scoring mark set by Bennie Osterbaan.

LAKE SHIPPING SEASON OPENED

Oil Tanker Launches Season With Toledo-Detroit Trip

CLEVELAND, March 8.—With the departure of the Gulf Oil tanker Regent from Toledo to Detroit yesterday, the 1938 season on lower lake ports is under way.

While numerous small ships are expected to clear from Lake Erie ports with coal for Detroit in the next two weeks, depending on weather conditions, shipping men predict that the bulk shipping season will not get under way until late in May or the first of June.

With steel mills operating at only 25 per cent of capacity iron ore stocks on docks and at furnaces are the highest in many years.

Iron ore consumption has been only a little over one million tons a month since the navigation season closed last November.

Vessels at this time expect only nominal activity the first part of the season, the total iron ore movement depending on steel mill activity.

Present estimates of the ore movement are between 30,000,000 and 35,000,000 tons, unless there is a sudden upsurge in the steel making rate.

A year ago this time every Great Lakes vessel was being outfitted for the biggest season since 1929, when 65,000,000 tons of ore were brought down from the northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota ranges. Last year's movement was 63,000,000 tons.

had started their vicious attacks on the highway department."

Sen. Verner R. Metcalf (R-Washington), investigating committee, said abolition of Sparks' job "totally disproves Mr. Davey's statement that his cabinet heads were in control of their departments."

Governor Davey said in his address that in the nine months preceding his inauguration the liquor department showed a $3,000,000 profit.

"Please remember that figure—$3,000,000," he said. "In our first year we produced $9,000,000. In our second year we produced $13,000,000. And last year over $16,000,000 profit. There cannot be anything very bad about a state department with such a magnificent record. I challenge the world to find anything of comparable size and nature that is any better."

Child Bride Sent to School

Dorothy Markley Blum (above), 15-year-old girl who, six months ago, was married to 32-year-old Charles Blum in Philadelphia, Pa., won a $5-a-week allowance so that she could continue her studies in the William Penn High School for Girls. The child, who refused to be reconciled with her husband, said "I am through with marriage."

Hits German's Use Of Political Arms Against Churches

BERLIN, March 8.—Rev. Friedrich Mueller, in the first Sunday service since his colleague, Rev. Martin Niemöller, was sent to a concentration camp, deplored the use of political measures against the church.

He said the action of the Gestapo (secret police) in confining Mr. Niemöller showed that the government again was using political weapons against the church, "but we are not permitted to defend ourselves by political means."

"We cannot fan the flame of indignation which sweeps Germany as a result of Niemöller's treatment," Mr. Mueller said, "for that would be regarded as political agitation."

Nevertheless, he admonished the congregation not to weaken. He ended his sermon with an appeal for prayers for the Mr. Niemöller and about 15 other pastors under arrest in various parts of the country.

Mr. Mueller compared Mr. Niemöller's treatment by the Nazis with that of Jesus in the hands of the Jews.

Mr. Niemöller was taken to the Sachsenhausen concentration camp near Berlin after his trial and sentencing last week on charges of speaking against Nazi leaders and misusing the pulpit.

FLOOD CONTROL PROJECTS ASKED

Six States Bordering Ohio River Make Appeals To President

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A group of congressmen from six states bordering on the Ohio river and its tributaries asked President Roosevelt today to approve 31 flood control projects at an estimate cost of $80,000,000.

Uncertain of Revenue

Representative Crowe (D-Ind.) said the President was not certain whether any flood control appropriations could be made available now because he could not determine at this time the amount of revenue the new tax bill will produce.

House leaders said last week after a White House visit that an omnibus flood control "authorization" bill probably would be reported for action this session.

The Ohio valley group said the war department had compiled the 31 projects placed before the President and said they appeared to be the ones most needed as a result of floods.

Besides Crowe the group included Representatives Demuth (D-Pa.), Dixon (D-Ohio), Polk (D-Ohio), Imhoff (D-Ohio), Spence (D-Ky), Johnson (D-W. Va.), Keller (D-Ill.).

The projects listed and their estimated total construction cost included: Portsmouth, Ohio, $3,996,000; New Boston, Ohio, $2,144,000; Cincinnati, Ohio (six units) $7,345,000; Wheeling, W. Va., (business section), $1,000,000; Huntington, W. Va., (Westmoreland), $3,510,000; Ashland, Ky., (business section) $2,441,000; Parkersburg, W. Va., (business section), $2,300,000; Huntington, W. Va., (Guyandotte section), $2,535,000; McKees Rocks, Pa., $1,602,000; Wheeling, W. Va., (South Wheeling), $4,212,000.

Martins Ferry, Ohio, $1,735,000; West Bridgewater, Pa., $828,000; Warwood, W. Va., $614,000; New Kensington, and Parnassus, Pa., $1,602,900; Freeport, Pa., $1,462,500; Tarentum, Breckenridge, and Natrona, Pa., $4,167,500; Buckhannon, W. Va., $951,000; Punxsutawney, Pa., $2,471,200; Weilsburg, W. Va., $1,157,800; Bellaire, Ohio, $2,710,300; New Martinsville, W. Va., $1,707,000; and Middle Port, Ohio, $2,107,000.

Mayor in Transit Tempest
